Star Trek Based Fan Series Films Trailer Starship Farragut's Crew Achieves Project Milestone

(Washington, DC, October 12, 2005)—Starship Farragut, a fan-film project, announced today the completion of filming the exterior footage, including outdoor planetary scenes, of its Series Trailer that will showcase the Star Trek based fan film series.

"We have achieved a significant milestone for Starship Farragut with our initial filming," said John Broughton, Executive Producer, Starship Farragut. "Since we started the project about three months ago, we have moved forward at warp speed on developing a website, writing the script, drawing storyboards, creating numerous costumes, building props purchasing camera equipment and recruiting personnel. This has got to be a world record for any Star Trek fan film!"

Filming of the interior ship scenes will begin on November 5th. The five-minute series trailer is scheduled to be completed by early November. The series trailer and future full length episodes will be available as a free downloads via www.starshipfarragut.com.

About Starship Farragut
